Together, but certainly not by choice; HEW, the courts, the school system — somebody — forced students, teachers, and administrators into new situations. As school opened there was obvious diversity. Blacks and whites confronted each other individually for the first time. Desperate eyes searched for familiar faces of others plucked from home schools. Some were exhausted by endless hours on school buses, while others enjoyed short relaxing bus rides. Different cultures confronted both blacks and whites in manners of dress, speech, and values. Although the change in the school system dealt directly with the students and teachers, the community projected their aroused emotions by writing and telephoning the school board, by picketing, by keeping their kids out of school, and by forming an anti-busing group, Save Our Neighborhood Schools. This modification stirred not only the conservatives, but also the realists and the dreamers.

Despite dissimilarities throughout Ferguson, despite those negatively aroused, and despite those who didn't care the students began to mingle in hopes of

FHS begins a spirited experiment in black and white

"When I found out that I would be attending Ferguson instead of Huntington High, it surprised me, but I thought of it as typical. I referred to it as typical because of the fact that Black students could not receive as many benefits as White schools without integration. But I can say that being among White students has been an experience. I haven't decided what kind yet."

"As a student, I started out a little shaky, but after a period of getting everything together, I find myself able to work well with Black and Whites and to understand the ideas and ways of each."

Understanding both sides bridges Black-White relation gap

"Before this school year began I was very pessimistic about its outcome, and my attitude was that of a spoiled child who had lost his only toy. But then I began to look ahead and to think of the advantages of busing; in only 12 weeks I have gained many meaningful friendships. I have been exposed to a more realistic way of living together — Black and White."

"Personally, my grades have dropped drastically and I'm not showing any type of spirit. I'm in nothing but I.C.T. because I'm just not interested in anything right now, but maybe later everything will be better."

Lack of manners, attitude concerns teachers

"The major changes as I see it are students not wanting to learn, the lack of manners students display, a lack of interest and pride that students take in their school and themselves. The care of equipment and books throughout the school has greatly decreased. But the teacher-teacher relationship is a good one. The change has caused a decrease in the extra-curricular program. The standards in classrooms must be lowered so some students can keep up to grade level."

65% turnover forbodes tension, natural hesitancy

"The initial shock of a 65% turnover in student body, a new principal and community resentment toward the school system, certainly forboded many changes in my role as a school administrator. However, once the uncertainty, tension, and natural hesitancy concerning the unknown had been supplanted by understanding, I found that my job had not really been changed at all."

Busing controversy started before school did in cities far from Newport News. Parents in Pontiac, Michigan, bodily blocked buses from moving. Nearer home, in Richmond, Judge Robert Merhige's January decision to consolidate the capital city's school system with those of neighboring counties re-ignited the debate. Busing became a national campaign issue; the local Save Our Neighborhood Schools group organized protest rallies. SONS found an expression of their point of view in Sen. Henry M. Jackson's (D-Wash.) statement:

"I oppose massive busing of children solely for the purpose of satisfying some arbitary mix of students on the basis of race or religion or heritage.

"It's high time we moved beyond the busing controversy to the challenge of educational quality.

"I would rather go in the direction of the California State Supreme Court decision which says, in effect, that the wealth of a school district should not be permitted to determine the quality of education. If that decision were implemented at the state and federal levels, then no child could be bused to an inferior school or be forced to attend an inferior school.

"What we desperately need is not massive busing, but a massive commitment of talent and resources to achieve equality of educational opportunity."

Unfamiliar faces, new classrooms, and a variety of organizations and cultures opened the school year — one week later than originally scheduled — at Ferguson.

Student-to-student communication was hampered, for past school ties dominated student associations; but in time the conflicting identities were dissolved. No longer could one be recognized as a Viking, Trojan, Typhoon, Farmer or Monarch; instead, each came to realize his new Mariner status.

Within classrooms and clubs, goals varied; within the different cultures, contrasting ideals were present.

Teachers and administrators also faced change. Half of the faculty was new to Ferguson; but it was a new Ferguson even to those who knew the building. Everyone had to adjust to "a whole new ball game," a new principal told them, as well as to temporarily frozen salaries (with retroactive pay finally coming in January) and to the absence of eighth and ninth graders.

But while people searched for a possible method linking the assortment of aspirations, the development of new and reorganization of old clubs aided in weaving a closer relationship, unifying the goals and

Social Studies fuse modernity, antiquity

Teachers ran off tests and information on their new ditto machine; creative projects and educational programs were videotaped and played back in class.

Delegates hear Holton in Vinton

Before the opening of school, a representative group of student leaders met to write a new SCA constitution for a new student body. The difficulty they experienced in dismissing old loyalties and feelings of "the way it was done at my school" was only a preview of a year of apathy and few SCA projects.

The Elections Committee conducted all elections. The SCA soon began work on its first project, the football victory dance. Students collected for the "Toys for Tots" campaign and held Spirit Week to support the basketball team. Stunt Night try-outs prompted the most enthusiasm, bringing a lapse of total apathy.

Next on the SCA slate was an Action Week to recognize the staff, faculty, and students and to participate in community affairs. A luncheon honored municipal and student leaders. The year closed with an "end of school" dance featuring "Satan's Shadows."

Contemplation of future goals for the SCA is evident on new and old officers faces.

English stacks paperback library, pushes for elective courses

Moved from a closet on the second floor, the English Department set up shop in one side of the teachers' lounge, where new shelves and a new ditto machine aided office efficiency. English teachers offered $20 from their funds to the English class collecting the most books for the paperback library.

Aware of deficiencies in the curriculum, teachers planned an alternate elective program for the senior year. Four new courses were approved for 1972-73. New materials, especially in the areas of Black Literature and audio-visuals, arrived to meet the needs of students.

Awards were presented during a banquet in May.

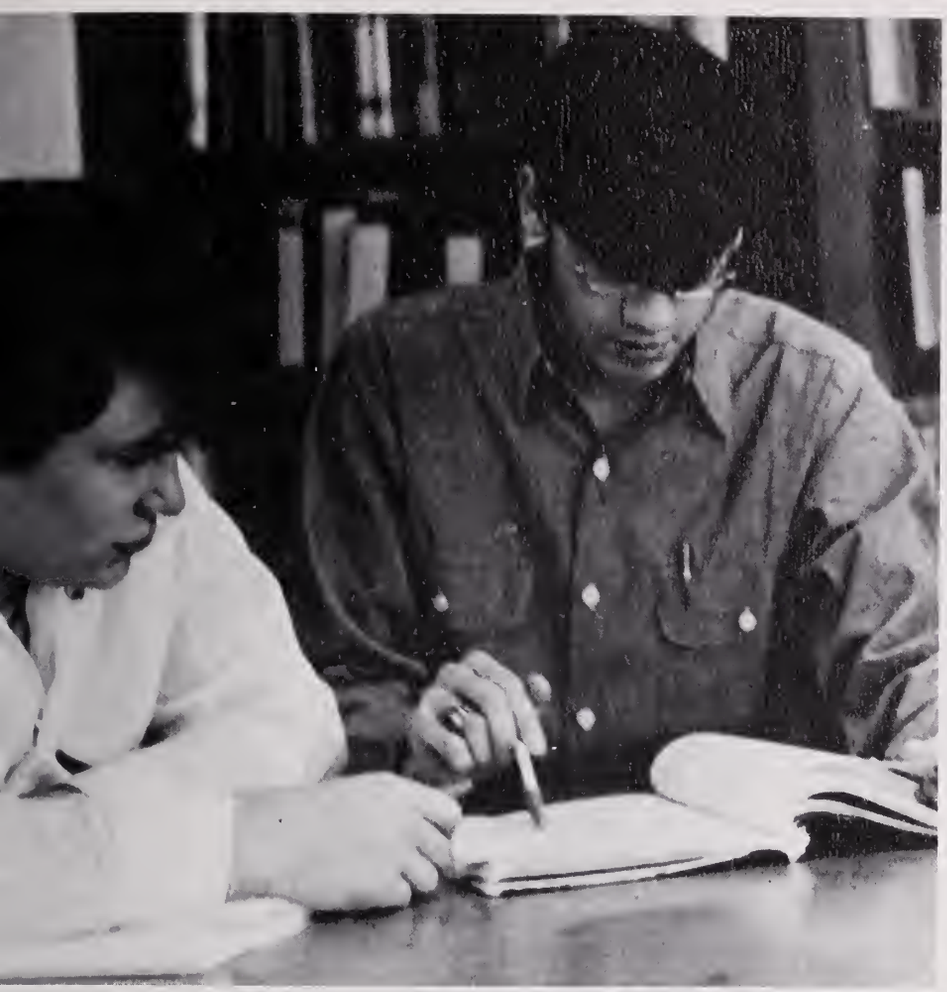
Debate reorganizes after four years; FHS shares district forensics title

Trips to the library, reading the daily newspaper, and knowing what goes on around him are among a debater's daily chores. Although the team was small, its members and Mrs. Florence Haltiwanger, sponsor, were able to reorganize the club from past inactivity, debating "that the jury system should be significantly changed.

Forensics also came alive again at Ferguson. Mrs. Anne MacLeod coached the hosting team for the District Forensics competition. FHS shared the district title with Hampton as Beth Saliba was first in girls' extemporaneous speaking, Bruce Hake was second in boys' poetry, and Steve Barton was third in boys' extemporaneous speaking.



Monkey, Parrots, Death star

Three months of preparation brought forth Ferguson's production of Inherit the Wind, with Robert Galloway as Matthew Harrison Brady, Bruce Hake as Henry Drummond and Joyce Eason as Rachel Brown. On January 14 and 16, students got a small town in Tennessee's view on evolution based on the Scopes Monkey Trial. The play progressed with a dynamic revival scene improvised by Mr. Doug French, with Sandra Williams as Rev. Sister Brown.

The spring productions of Ferguson's Drama Department were two one act plays, Miss Fivel's "A Perfect Analysis Given By A Parrot" and Mr. Doug French's rendetion of "Bury the Dead."

In one afternoon assembly, "Free Fare" gave a free preview of their February 21 concert. On March 23, science classes saw the world of computers in "The Future Is Today." A choir from Auckland, New Zealand, never got to complete its April concert because of the library fire.

Seasonal assemblies, club ceremonies, and personalities also filled the auditorium.

Two personalities paced the halls more often than the stage. Mrs. Brenda Phillips and Mrs. Robert Valcourt, Ferguson's staff aides, were around to help slow students get to class, to slow those who left class too soon, and to generally keep the peace.

Blessed with resources, French and German classes benefited from the new equipment. Audio-visual devices and a full-time lab aided teachers. Bustling with activity, the members of the Future Teachers of America found that teaching can be fun. Teaching children about Christmas and learning to tutor kids with reading and spelling problems brought wisdom and enjoyment to local elementary schools. "Teacher of the Month" contest raised money for a Christmas party. Mrs. Helen Shelton and Mrs. Doris Harrell took the FTA to visit the Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Regional Center for Retarded Children.

Longer class, ICT add new dimension

"Two straight hours on one subject?" The senior stenographer's class co-ordinated business skills. The Business Department, headed by Mrs. Becki Congleton, offered notehand, personal typing, and business law in addition to regular business courses. Afternoon workers enrolled in the Vocational Office Training program. VOT sponsored a fall induction banquet and a spring employer appreciation banquet.

New to ferguson, the Industrial Co-operative Training Department specialized in the industries and trades. Mr. Julian Baker, co-ordinator, screened all applicants for the two year program. ICT members worked a minimum of 15 hours per week or attended a cosmetology school. Contests for the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America corresponded to academic courses and practical training. VICA, led by President Sandra Sheets, sold food, Christmas candles, and stationery to raise needed funds throughout the school year.

Distributive Ed provides evening jobs.

"You mean I can get out of school for a half day and get paid?" Afternoon jobs afforded Distributive Education students with pocket money and valuable experience. Dealing with the distribution of merchandise, the DE department offered a three year program with employment in the last two years. Required membership in the Distributive Education Clubs of America allowed students to expand their knowledge outside the classroom. Co-curricular DECA sponsored contests and banquets on each organizational level. Heading the department, Mr. Pete Farmer sponsored DECA. Jennifer Broad, president, and Charles Byrd, vice-president, directed the organization with assistance from Ellen Gray, secretary, and Don Stickles, treasurer. One course, fashion merchandising, was not affiliated with DECA. The class enjoyed field trips to Washington, D.C., and to a factory.

Enrollment up in three shop areas

Industrial Arts offered an expanded program in 1971-72 to meet the interests of an increased enrollment. Relief from the pressure of books in the classroom came in the form of projects in Wood, Metal, and Electric Shops. Students in Drafting learned lettering and basic architectural design.

Four art teachers motivated students in functional forms, including macramé, pottery, and jewelry, in addition to the more traditional oil, water color, pencil, and charcoal efforts on paper.

Works were exhibited in the library, in hall showcases, and in "open house" showings in the art rooms. One former science lab became an art room to meet the needs of the larger number of students taking this popular elective.

Math solves another integrated equation.

"Since when was integration a math problem?" Schools might have changed. Teachers might have changed. But students found that mathematic problems and theorems had not altered. Mrs. Mary Ellen Taback headed up the math teachers' attempts to aid pupils in understanding. Courses were planned to aid all calibers of mathematical achievement. The month of March again became host to the National Mathematics Contest. From algebra, to probability, to the TV calculus class, students and study were a solid pair in a very mobile year.

Two groups often missed after football and parade seasons were the majorettes and flagtwirlers. At the beginning of the year, Mr. Wray Herring judged the girls on their poise and ability to twirl. The 11 with the highest scores were chosen as majorettes, the next eight as flagtwirlers.

Besides twirling at pep assemblies and during halftime at the games, they performed on the bleachers during the games. Branching out, they served as usherettes for band concerts.

To the beat of the band, the 30 members of Drill Team performed. Twice at football games and for basketball, the girls, led by Co-captains Peggy Horton and Jeanne Guy, helped initiate school spirit. Try-outs were held in October. Former members stayed after school every day for two weeks prior to try-outs to teach interested girls the routine. Drive nets 8500 paperbacks; electrical fire closes library

Ironically, National Library Week came the week after $50,000 worth of damage was caused by an electrical fire. On Friday night, April 15, the auditorium lights went out during a concert. When Mr. Harry Henry discovered the fire, he evacuated the building. Over 3,400 books were lost in the blaze. During May, the library got a new look: a lowered ceiling, fresh paint, new shelves, see-through windows, and a new aquamarine carpet.

Other problems at the start of school included forged names used in checking out books. Trying to eliminate this practice, no fines were charged. Unco-operative students, however, forced Librarian Mrs. Carol Childress and her assistants to change this privilege.

Power, drive, determination clench Ferguson's Peninsula Championship

Busing brought to Ferguson a myriad of young men from all over the Peninsula. Players from six schools formed a unique winning combination. By the end of the regular season, under the coaching of Harlan Hott and Lloyd Eason, the 1971 Mariners had a 9-1 record.

Seven consecutive wins ranked Ferguson number one in Virginia on October 13. Only a 14-7 loss to Bethel in the final rainy seconds marred a perfect season for the Peninsula District Champions.

Varsity, JV teams end with victories

After easily defeating Kecoughtan and Hampton, the Varsity Mariners held off stubborn Menchville, 14-7. In the next four games FHS scored 92 points to their opponents' six. After a 27-20 win over Pembroke, Hott's men ended the season with a one-point win over Ferguson's arch rival Warwick Raiders.

Ninth graders from Newport News Intermediate School and Sophomores from Ferguson High School worked together under Coach Donald Hedgepath to form the Mariners' Junior Varsity team. They ended up the year with a record of two wins and eight losses. The JV's lost three of their games by only two points in the last few seconds. But they closed the season on a good note, defeating Warwick by a score of 12-6.

Ronald Ray: Superstar

Despite the inexperience and overall lack of depth, the Ferguson track team experienced its most successful season in the school's history, placing second in the district and third in the state during indoor track, and third in the district, second in regional, and third in the state in outdoor track. Virtually every school record was broken, with the exceptions of the mile, 880, shotput, and discus.

Leading the team was Ronald Ray, former Huntington student and, according to Coach Wade Williams, "probably the greatest prep track athlete to come out of Virginia." He set national high school records in the 440 (45.8) and the 500 (58.0). Other standouts included hurdler Ronald Knight, two-miler Jimmy King, 880 man John Mullens, broad jumper Jerome Boyd, sprinter Ronnie Moore, quarter-milers John Fisher and William Lewis, hurdler Lionel Cofer, and triple jumper Nat Haggar. Coach Williams concluded, "Many young promising prospects will be on hand to boost the Mariner's chances for a state title in 1972-73."

Mariners upset Raiders by a basket

Under the direction of Coach Charlie Wollum and Assistant Coach Freddy Travis, the Varsity Basketball squad ended with a record of 10 wins and 9 losses. Two outstanding players highlighting the season were Andre Brown and Ray Alley. Mariners suffered close losses to the rival Patriots and Monarchs in the last few seconds of the games. But the climax of the season came in the last game when District Champion Warwick was upset by a score of 47-45. In May, the announcement came that Travis would assume head coaching duties as Wollum accepted the assistant coaching job at Old Dominion University in Norfolk.

A player recalls . . .

Friday, December 3. Before the game tonight, the team was confident that we could win if we wanted to, but we were all certainly nervous. We beat Pembroke . . . tested our ability to play as a team. I felt very good about the game . . . I did all right.

Tuesday, December 7. More nervous than I think I've ever been because we were in the Coliseum in a very big game against Kecoughtan. They beat us in a game which was to determine which of us was the toughest and this discouraged me and the rest of the team a little. But it's early in the season and we have a lot of work to do until we get rolling. I felt miserable . . .

Friday, December 10. The victory tonight against JB was a big one for us because we ran the game well and made them play our type of basketball. JB isn't one of the best teams, but our victory restored self-confidence . . . Second win at home . . . I was glad to show the people of Ferguson that we were a good team.

Tuesday, December 14. Not much to say about tonight . . . we got beat just because we were outhustled and this hurt more than anything. Menchville is small and quick and their full-court press tore us up . . . it got to me tonight and I made more mistakes than I care to think about.

Friday, December 17. Hampton has a good team and we beat them tonight . . . I feel good because I got to set up a few successful plays and I hustled more than ever.

Tuesday, January 4. Closest game I've ever played. We were fortunate to beat York by one point. Near the end I just wasn't sure of what was going to happen. We just got together and proved that we could take the pressure of a very tight game. I played pretty sloppy. Our wins have been coming every other game and we got to get more consistent.

Friday, January 7. Before the game tonight, everyone was joking around about how bad Denbigh's team is and how we wouldn't have any problems with them. We found out in the first half that Denbigh wasn't any pushover. I was surprised at how much spirit the Denbigh fans showed for their team because they hadn't won a game yet. I am just glad that we ended up beating them by about 30 point. . . . we should've beaten them by more than that.

Tuesday, January 11. Bethel gave us a tough game and we all gave our most to win this one.

Friday, January 14. This is the night I'd been waiting for for many months. I was back at my old school and I had a chance to show them what my new team could do. Unfortunately, we stunk up that gym and got beat . . . Humiliation . . . I could blame my poor play on nervousness but that would be stupid! We're going to beat Warwick next time in our gym.

Friday, January 21. Tonight's loss was very frustrating for me. We'd been practicing a week during exams. We'd beat Pembroke in the first game and tonight they neatly knocked us off. I've never been on a team that's won a game in the Coliseum.

Tuesday, January 25. I can't explain how I feel now . . . I sat on the bench the whole game and I feel I should've played. I wish we could've pulled one off against Kecoughtan . . . our third loss in a row.

Friday, January 28. We had to go all the way to Williamsburg to play tonight. We made the trip worthwhile. This was the first game we've played without Andre . . . We can be a good team.

Tuesday, February 1. The game was a big disappointment because we were beaten by only 2 points in a very sloppy game which we should've won. I know alot of the players on the Menchville team and it really hurts to lose by only 2 in our gym.

Friday, February 11. A long game. It's hard to lose to last place Denbigh, especially in the last seconds when we could've pulled it out. It was back and forth in the last quarter. We blew it.

Friday, February 18. Beating Warwick, the District Champions, in the last game of the season was just great. If only we could've played like that all season.

Ending the regular dual-match season, the wrestling team posted a 8-1 record while finishing fourth in the District Tournament.

Both Don Carrithers and Steve Ruggles were District Champs. District coaches named Carrithers outstanding wrestler. Other outstanding wrestlers named were John Gsell and Joel Monteith.

"Lack of experience was our main handicap," stated Coach Don Coccoli. The win over Hampton highlighted the season with a 30-24 score. The only loss was to Menchville.

Baseball turns in winning season

"Baseball is like any other sport. You can have good talent potentially, but you have to put it together," observed Mr. Ted Hicks, baseball coach. Mariners put together a 9-8 season, beating number-one teams from Bethel and Kecoughtan. Ferguson also got two unexpected wins over York.

Twelve seniors, seven juniors, and one sophomore made up the varsity squad. Ronnie Hatchett's broken collar bone and Allen Wyatt's pulled muscle hurt the pitching staff in an otherwise strong infield.

Peninsula coaches named Barry Wynings the area's outstanding second baseman. Wynings and short stop Jerry Giddens also made the All-District team.

Grinding practices churn out two for tournament.

"You mean I have to run laps if I lose?" Following the motivating leadership of Coach Phil Turner, the tennis team commenced the 1972 season with the experience of veterans Ricky Butler, Randy Bryant, and Duane Diggs. During the regular season of play, Bryant lost two matches while Butler lost only one. The vigorous daily practices brought Ferguson a winning season of 7-3. In the District Singles Tournament, Randy Bryant advanced to the third round and Ricky Butler advanced to the semi-finals, capturing third.

Butler commented, "It was unfortunate that Ferguson lost many of their best players in the zoning shuffle to Menchville, the eventual district champions."

"Girls aren't very good in sports." The Girls' Recreation Association disagreed. Headed by Starla Livingston and sponsored by Mrs. Carolyn Chittenden, the GRA, consisting of those girls who participated in any organized sport, played a variety of game. These games included Hockey, Gymnastics, Basketball, Volleyball, Tennis, Track and Field, and Softball. In November, the hockey team attended the tournament at the College of William and Mary. Later in the year, Barbara Wallis, Laura Graves, and Debbie Burns attended the regional gymnastics meet. Barbara placed second in the unevens division, and Laura placed fourth in best all around.

Award presentations thrill sporty winner

Basketball games were played against other GRA teams. Track and field started in April while tennis girls traveled to various schools for matches. At the end of the year, awards were given in hockey, basketball, tennis, gymnastics, track and field, and to an outstanding senior. Certificates were awarded to girls who attended three-fourths of the practices and games. Upon receiving their fifth certificate, the players received their letter.

Cheerleaders serve suckers

Football players got high-energy, high-spirited suckers from the cheerleaders at an outside pep assembly. And cheerleaders gave high energy and spirit all year as they decorated the locker room, attended a dinner given by James Blair cheerleaders for their homecoming, gave the football team a party after the Warwick game, got new uniforms, sold "Go Mariner" buttons, had early morning bake sales, ran the coaches room for the wrestling tournaments, met Andy Williams and the Haggar Twins at the airport, cheered for upcoming Sophomores Orientation Night, and trained girls for May tryouts.

Five differently designed cakes and punch provided refreshments for the 400 seniors that attended the "Crystal Paradise." May 12 — the night was the prom — but the day was an unofficial Senior Skip Day. A string of events followed, including graduation practices. Sitting on the other side of the desk was quite new for some seniors on Leadership Day. The main highlight of the picnic in late May was the dunking of "selected" students and teachers. During the morning-long assembly, senior council members recapped school years from out of the past.

NEWPORT NEWS. WE'VE LAUNCHED MORE THAN 500 SHIPS.

But wait 'til you see our encore. When we started out in 1886, we were just a small ship repair yard. We named the company Newport News. Because we were proud to be doing business here.

Today we're the largest shipyard in the world. And we're still proud to call ourselves Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. Because a lot of the people who helped put us where we are today come from right here on the Virginia Peninsula.

With their help, Newport News has become an important asset to our community, our state and our nation.

Sure, launching over 500 ships in a little more than 80 years is a pretty impressive achievement. But we're not standing still for that. We're constantly looking to the future.

And since our acquisition by Tenneco Inc. we've got an even greater encore lined up for our employees and the community.
